LUM School of Management of the LUM University, founded in 2004, represents a wide community whose main strategic objectives are supporting managers in developing their organizations, facilitating the entry of young graduates into the labor market, promoting the culture of corporate responsibility in order to encourage the governance and the sustainable development of our territories and communities, assisting managers and public administration officials in continuing education and updating processes aimed at improving public governance.

LUM School of Management works for its own didactics' quality and innovation, adopting a methodology based on the assumption that effective learning takes place through experience. The traditional classroom activity is then combined with other teaching techniques such as demonstrations, business cases' analysis, events, exercises, application of the knowledge acquired during the course, in a perspective of comparison that stimulates the continuous interaction of the participants with colleagues and teachers.

The School takes advantage of the contribution of Ateneo's teachers, experience and know-how of prominent personalities in the realm of business, consultancy, finance and freelance, besides the collaboration of other Italian and international Universities' representatives.

We aim to provide to participants the fundamental tools to develop and valorize the individual capabilities, in order to take up a highly qualified career in line with their own aspirations.
